Football on the Cayman Islands

Football is the most popular sport on the Cayman Islands, but a targeted, coordinated development plan was only recently launched. Success will not come overnight and the football-crazy islanders must patiently await their first taste of success. A number of national association officials sit on committees of CONCACAF and FIFA, and also occupy strategic positions during various international competitions.

The first Goal Project

Following two years of planning, the Cayman Islands Football Association submitted plans for a national training centre, which were approved by the Goal Bureau on 22 September 2004. The centre was built in several phases, starting with the construction of accommodation for national teams. This complex provides the various national teams with ideal conditions in which to prepare for international matches. It plays host to various courses organised as part of the association's development and football promotion programmes and to training sessions for the country's most talented young footballers in all age categories.

Second Goal project

The second Goal project completes the technical centre that was built for the Cayman Islands FA under the first Goal project. The project approved by the Goal Bureau on 22 October 2008 consists of building a football pitch alongside the centre, thus providing the Cayman Islands FA with headquarters, a technical centre and training facilities on the same site.

Women's football

When, in 1995, today's FIFA President said "The future of football is feminine", it was more than mere lip service. It reflected a strong belief in the huge potential that women's football has to develop. Ever since, FIFA has given targeted support for the efforts of associations who offer women the same opportunities to develop as male players. Launched in 1998, FIFA's Financial Assistance Programme (FAP) introduced a requirement in 2004 for the associations and confederations to invest at least 4% of their FAP funding into women's football. This threshold was increased to 10% in 2005. On top of this commitment, FIFA also promotes the women's game in more general ways by directly financing women's matches and organising competitions and symposiums. Thanks to its development programmes, FIFA is also playing an active role in the training of administrators, coaches, referees and sports doctors.
