Football in Brunei Darussalam

Little information about football in this tiny sultanate reaches the outside world. However, the association was founded in 1959 and has an ordered structure. Brunei's national teams have appeared in many Asian and FIFA tournaments. Brunei made their international debut in the preliminary round for the 1986 FIFA World Cup™ in Mexico, but struggled to make an impression and failed to win any points. A similar story unfolded during the qualifiers for the 2002 event. The domestic game has developed, however, mainly thanks to sponsorship deals with major companies. Originally consisting of 10 teams, the current B-League is now broken down into Premier I (10 teams) and Premier II (14 teams). In March 2005, the Sultan opened the nine-team ASEAN U-21 Championship, which was hosted by Brunei.

Goal Project

The Brunei Darussalam association was included in the list of members to benefit from Goal three years ago, when it was suggested that any project would be directed at improving the infrastructure of the organisation's work. On 4 February 2008, the Goal Bureau approved a two-storey headquarters including offices and meeting rooms adjacent to a multipurpose hall.

Women's football

When, in 1995, today's FIFA President said "The future of football is feminine", it was more than mere lip service. It reflected a strong belief in the huge potential that women's football has to develop. Ever since, FIFA has given targeted support for the efforts of associations who offer women the same opportunities to develop as male players. Launched in 1998, FIFA's Financial Assistance Programme (FAP) introduced a requirement in 2004 for the associations and confederations to invest at least 4% of their FAP funding into women's football. This threshold was increased to 10% in 2005. On top of this commitment, FIFA also promotes the women's game in more general ways by directly financing women's matches and organising competitions and symposiums. Thanks to its development programmes, FIFA is also playing an active role in the training of administrators, coaches, referees and sports doctors.
